The Robert Sherman Comedy company presented "My Friend an Arkansaw," last night to one of the largest houses ever seen at the Wagoner opera house. The play was received with unbounded enthusiasm by the audience down to the gallery alike. The play shows all the qualities of a dramatic success, and the performance was without a blemish. Mr. Sherman is a comedian of rare abilities.

There will no doubt be a crowded house on the night of Feb. 11th, to enjoy the performance of Chas. H. Boyle and his company in the farce comedy entitled "The Star Boarder." This is a high class entertainment containing many comical numbers and bright up-to-date specialties which will be presented throughout the production. In fact there are many novelties in "The Star Boarder" which will be served with life and sprightliness, every feature being strikingly good. The show should not be missed, it is said to be the best of the season in the farce comedy line, and furnished a fine full symphony orchestra.

Transcendent Subject of Law. It is estimated that fully 16,000 "laws" will have been enacted before all the legislatures adjourn. That is to say, the thirty law-making bodies, exclusive of congress, that assembled this winter will have passed and the governors of the various states will have signed that number of good, bad and indifferent bills. Last year there were thirteen legislatures in session, and they enacted 5,772 new laws.
